THE GRAN CHACO EXPEDITION

The officers who are to organize and direct the new military expedition, ordered by the Government against the Indians of the Gran Chaco, have just left this city for Corrientes and Formosa; and although it is improbable that this expedition will ever reach the importance of that of the Rio Negro, still the territory of the Chaco at present in the hands of the Indians, some 3 to 4000 square leagues, will, when reclaimed from the savage, more than compensate the War Office for the cost of the present movement.

There was a time, and not very long ago, when no one in Buenos Aires took the slightest interest in the movement of the troops in the Gran Chaco, and even to this day there are few save the President of the Republic and his Ministers who thoroughly understand the meaning of the present campaign, but before the end of the present year it is probable people will pay more attention to Gran Chaco affairs. Industry and enterprise are marching hand in hand up there. There are colonies, estancias, saw-mills, sugar plantations, sugar mills, and even railways, all the offspring of private capital and individual enterprise.

Mr. Callan's visit to the Murietta estate, a portion of which is in the Chaco; Mr. Ocampo's great sugar plantation, mill and colony, and now Mr. Langworthy's great concession of 32 square leagues, all combine to attract the attention of the public to the Chaco and its future. According to Mr Langworthy, who has travelled over the world, there is nothing to exceed the rich fertility of the Chaco lands, and the dense woods of quebracho colorado, that are met with everywhere in the Chaco, are nothing short of mines of wealth that have yet to be developed. But the Indians of the Chaco are more numerous and more troublesome than those on the Colorado and Rio Negro, and Mr. Langworthy informs us that the settlers and colonists up there are constantly harassed, and that whilst he was there the Indians made a clean sweep of all the horses etc., close up to one of the colonies.

The expedition, therefore, ordered by the Government comes betimes, as with the Indians at one's door it is impossible to look for any great development of the Gran Chaco. General Victorica, Minister of War, has at the War Office a map or plan of the new line of forts which the Government proposes to establish, and which will free the Thomson-Bonar and the Ocampo colonies from all further Indian raids.

Mr. Langworthy has gone to Italy to bring out 250 Italian agricultural families for his new colony, and will pass on from Italy to the great workshops of England, France and Germany to order the best machinery for the sugar-mill which he purposes erecting on his lands there.

We may add that another sugar plantation company, with mill, etc., is being started in this market, to be located also in the Chaco, where, according to every report, the sugar-cane grows better than in Tucuman.

We congratulate the War Minister on this new departure, and hope it will be our agreeable duty to chronicle in these columns the fullest success of the expedition.

GENERAL WINTER.

The National Government has appointed General Winter, actual Governor of Patagonia, Commander-in-chief of the Second Division of the Army stationed on the banks of the Rio Negro, of the Limay and in the fastnesses of the Andes. General Villegas, who held the command, is morally and physically unable to continue in the post, owing to the infirmity that has prostrated him. The fatigues, privations and exposure of the second and last expedition against the Indians in the Triangle have wrecked a constitution that successfully resisted the hardships of war and revolution for many years. His successor, General Winter, recently appointed by the Government, is the very best man for the post.

Years ago we pointed in these columns to the expediency of making the Governor of Patagonia also the Commander-in-Chief of the Forces on the west frontier. The two posts should always be held by one man, as disagreements would have the most baneful results in the far South. General Winter can now carry out his favorite plans for the security of settlers on the northern and southern banks of the Rio Negro and Limay. Formerly he begged for his splendid regiment (5th of the Line), but now the Government gives him an entire division of several thousand men to help him in his ambition to make the Rio Negro and fertile parts of Patagonia the centres of mining and populous settlements.

Three months ago the Government dispatched one hundred men under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Roa, and accompanied by our Special Correspondent, Mr. J. L. Williams-Andrews, to the heart of Patagonia to seize Inacuyal and Shaihueque. Since then we have heard nothing of the expedition nor of our correspondent, who started from the Valchetas Valley. Many suppose that they have met with the fate of Hicks Pasha in the Soudan. General Winter will, no doubt, now send a few regiments to follow them up and help them in the arduous enterprise. This expedition will close the Trillian chapter in the South.

Every settler on the Rio Negro from the mouth of the river to tee foot of the Andes will be rejoiced to hear of General Winter's new appointment; let the military command of the Rio Negro frontier be always placed in the hands of the Governor of Patagonia for the sake of the sheepfarmers and estancieros. Henceforward the policy will be uniform and in harmony on both sides of the river, and the former slip-shod system of different jurisdiction on both banks will no longer exist.

Only those who are living on the frontier can fully appreciate the immense advantages of the Decree of the Government which we publish at foot; it redeems the errors of the past and puts in the hands of a man the power to carry out a policy praised by all, but which has lacked for years the help which the Government now gives:—

DECREE.

B. Aires, Eeb. 12, 1884

The President of the Republic decrees:—

Art. 1st—Whilst General C. Villegas's infirmity continues and prevents his taking the command of the Second Division of the Army, let General Winter, Governor of Patagonia, take provisional command over the forces.

Art. 2nd—Let it be communicated, etc.

THE RIACHUELO.

The following are some of the new rules and regulations for the Riachuelo Port, and which will be officially published in a few days:—

Vessels cannot cast anchor in the Entrance Channel, nor at a less distance than 200 metres from the buoys that mark it out.

Ships with their yards down ("en desarme") and which have no loading or discharging to do for 8 days, can only anchor in the ante-port, which is included in a straight line drawn from the extreme North end of the port to the machine house in the Plazoleta.

Vessels can anchor abreast on both sides of the river, provided they leave a minimum free passage of 20 metres; and captains, shippers, and agents will be held responsible for any damage arising from violation of this rule and not keeping the prescribed distance.

Steamers, no matter of what horse-power, can only go at half speed within the port.

Every vessel in the port must have a watch on board, and in case the crew be not numerous enough for working the ship, the Resguardo will supply hands, the shipper or consignee afterwards paying the expenses.

Every vessel with inflammable or explosive materials on board must fly a red flag at her mast-head by day and hoist a red light at night. When entering port the Resguardo must be advised, so that an Inspector may be sent, to remain on board till her cargo is discharged. Ships in this case can only anchor in the ante-port, and at not less than 50 metres from other vessels. While they are being unloaded, they must not have more than one craft alongside them at a time, and the explosive materials cannot be transferred to open boats or to any craft of less than five tons, and a red flag must be kept flying at a height of at least three metres from the deck. None of the explosive materials can be placed on the deck or on the wharves, and the carts must be ready at the wharf to take them away, and the carts must also display red flags.

Machinery or pieces of over three tons in weight cannot remain over 24 hours on the wharves, but beams of lumber or iron girders to the number of 50 can remain for 48 hours.

Carts can only remain at any point on the banks while they are loading or unloading.

The Leibnitz's Mails.

London, Jan. 19th, 1884

The hopeful character which the news from Egypt appeared to assume on Thursday has entirely disappeared. The Khedive has received an "official telegram" from Khartoum announcing that "the whole country around is in open rebellion." Baker Pasha has, it is said, abandoned all hope of being able to relieve the garrison of Sinkat.

A telegram from Hong-Kong reports, on the authority of the China Mail, that the Chinese Government has, at the request of Lord Granville, suspended the preparations for blockading the sea approaches to Canton. The French Government has ordered a number of new gunboats for service in the Tonquin rivers.

The King of Spain has requested Sr. Canovas del Castillo to undertake the formation of a Cabinet. His Majesty has taken this step in consequence of the obvious impossibility of inducing the various fractions of the Liberal party to unite.

Lord Lansdowne, in opening the Canadian Parliament, expressed his gratification at the continued prosperity of the Dominion. The number of emigrants who had arrived during the past season had been greater than ever before. Arrangements were in progress to diminish the cost of inland transportation, and he had reason to believe that there would be a steady increase of valuable settlers in the future. The accounts for the past year would show an expenditure considerably less and receipts larger than the estimates. The surplus exceeded that of any previous year.

The 'blocks' on the Suez Canal were raised on Thursday, after very heavy losses had been sustained by shipowners. At one time "a great procession" of steamers moving northward from Ismailia was visible. M. de Lesseps asserted in Paris on Thursday that the Company "have three times more ground than is necessary to effect all the improvements in the Canal which are deemed needful." He hopes speedily to see 'an end to chicanery and difficulties, and actively and promptly to commence the improvements which by common accord and in the common interest are judged necessary."

The Executive Committee of the North and North-east Lancashire cotton masters have resolved not to hold any more meetings to discuss the wages question. The Mayor of Blackburn, Mr. James Hoyle, addressed an earnest appeal in favour of a settlement of the wages dispute by arbitration.

Mr Gladstone has been informed of the endeavour by the Ashton trustees to compel their Cheshire farm tenants to abandon certain rights of compensation under the Agricultural Holdings Act of last session. The right hon. gentleman, through his secretary, promises to communicate at once with the proper department on the subject.

A deputation from the London and Counties Liberal Union, charged with the presentation of resolutions adopted at a recent conference in favour of a universal extension of the hours of polling waited on Sir Charles Dilke yesterday. The President, in reply, said he was in favour of a compulsory extension of the hours of polling to eight o'clock, but he doubted whether the House of Commons as a whole would pass such a measure. It would be his duty to introduce some proposals on that subject when Parliament assembled, but to attempt to obtain at once the full measure of reform would probably lead to so much discussion as to imperil its chances of success. The Franchise and London Government Bills, said Sir C. Dilke, 'must be passed,' and that necessity would explain any incompleteness in the nature of his suggestions on the Polling question. He was convinced that when the country was further educated on the subject their efforts would be fully accomplished.

Mr. W. H. Smith, M.P., and Sir Stafford Northcote, M.P., attended a Conservative meeting held at Exeter yesterday. Mr. Smith expressed his great horror of Mr. Chamberlain's programme, and as an incentive to Conservatives to be zealous for their party at the coming election he warned his hearers that they must not trust to the weak dukes and lords who were in the Government, for they were, he said, sure to give way before the will of Mr Chamberlain. He considered that the Conservative party would not be doing their duty if they did not point out to the country the absolute incapacity of the Government, who had allowed Egypt to fall into anarchy, and destroyed an army, had paralysed industry, and had failed to produce any policy by which order could be restored. Sir Stafford Northcote said that as far as they had any light thrown upon it the new Reform Bill was to begin by swamping the agricultural vote in the counties. An increased franchise would work hardly and unfavourably, and he protested against Parliament being elected upon an unfair and unequal basis in order to deal with the question of redistribution afterwards.

At the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Railway Company yesterday, the Chairman, Sir E. Watkin, complained of the constant obstruction to railway enterprise by the great public bodies of the metropolis, and claimed that the underground railways of London had done more for the working classes than all the benevolent institutions put together.

A large corn-mill at Sulby Bridge, near the well-known glen in the Isle of Man, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, and a miller named Gale perished in the flames.

Welham Hall, near Malton, the residence of Mr. R. H. Bower, was burnt to the ground at an early hour yesterday morning. The fire originated in an upper floor, and made the escape of the servants a matter of some difficulty. Most of the pictures, plate, and other valuables, were saved, and the damage is covered by insurance.

The Explosives Conspiracy trial was continued yesterday. At the close of Wolff's case Bondurand offered himself for examination, and he denied knowing anything of the plot to blow up the German Embassy. The case was again adjourned until this morning.

Within the past few days three cases of deliberate mutilation of cattle have occurred in Cheshire and Flintshire. During Thursday night the entire herd of cows on the farm of Mr Gough, Kilne Green, had their tails cut off, and yesterday a man supposed to be the author of the outrage sold a quantity of hair in Witchurch The police are in search of him.

The West Lancashire coalowners have declined to call a meeting of their Association for the purpose of discussing with the miners' delegates the application for increased wages.

The votes recorded tn the election of a coroner for the West Derby division were counted yesterday at Ormskirk, Mr Brighouse, having received 1,988 votes, was declared elected. His opponent, Mr Riley, was supported by 792 freeholders.

A Board of Trade inquiry into the stranding of the Anchor liner Bolivia when leaving the Clyde for N. York concluded yesterday in Glasgow. The casualty appeared to have originated in the shifting of a light-buoy, but the captain of the Bolivia was censured for navigating his vessel in any circumstances so close to a known danger. The Court, attributing the accident more to error in judgment than to neglect, decided not to deal with the Captain's certificate.

Yesterday, in the Board of Trade inquiry into the circumstances attending the stranding and total loss of the steamer South of Ireland on Christmas Day near Weymouth, the Wreck Commissioners suspended the certificate of the master for three months, in the meantime recommending him for a chief mate's certificate.

A coroner's jury at Liverpool yesterday found a verdict of "wilful murder" against four youths charged with fatally stabbing a Spanish seaman on the 5th inst. under a railway arch in Blackstone-street.

William Alexander Ogilvie, manager of the Northern Counties Bank, Newcastle, was tried at the Newcastle Assizes on Thursday on charges of fraud and falsification of accounts in connection with that concern. The jury acquitted him.

The Times is weary of the negotiations with the Delegates from the Transvaal. It assumes that "there is no question at all of imposing our will on the Boers by force," and concludes that "there is really no practical alternative but to let them have their own way."

A Proclamation by the Lord Lieutenant has been posted in the Loughrea district prohibiting the National League meeting which was to have been held at Loughrea to-morrow.

The negotiations between the Earl of Devon and his Limerick tenantry for the purchase of their holdings by the latter have fallen through. Only a few of the 300 who entertained his Lordship's proposals offered as much as 20 years' purchase, though the rents have been considered very moderate. The bids made were 12, 14, and 16 years' purchase, and these the noble Earl refused.

The uncompromising attitude of the Separatists towards the disposition of the Liberal party to redress Irish grievances in a constitutional manner is evidenced by a declaration of Mr Davitt in a letter to a Dublin paper on a "peasant woman's wrongs." Mr Davitt says:—"Mr Chamberlain may glibly talk to his Newcastle audience of "tens of thousands of men, fathers of families and tillers of the soil, being bound over by the benefits of the Land Act to keep the peace by recognisances stronger than any magistrate can enforce; but he mistakes the nature alike of Irish landlorism and of the innate hatred of it in the Irish heart if he imagines that it is his paltry Land Act, and not his party's Coercion and Crimes Acts, which causes our people to keep the peace towards a peace and home-destroying system."

In face of the Irish demand for national self-government it is interesting to read the reports with which the newspapers teem of the jarrings which distinguish the system of local self-government as conducted across the Channel. Two regrettable instances are reported in the Irish Times of yesterday. At the weekly meeting of the Athy Poor-law Guardians a squabble arose about a milk contract, and one of the Guardians refusing to withdraw a remark that there was a want of honesty and principle in the contracts, all his colleagues indignantly left the room. What followed is thus described: "The Clerk appealed to the Guardians from the boardroom window as they went down the avenue to come back, as the cheques for the relieving officers were not signed, but with no effect.—Mr. Hickey, a guardian: In Heaven's name come back, and don't leave God's poor destitute—The appeal was made in vain, and a portion of the business was left untransacted, including the election of a schoolmaster." The very next paragraph in the same journal is an account of "A Scene in the Sligo Corporation" This was brought about by a party dispute as to the appointment of a rate collector. After the voting the minority handed in a written protest. The paper was not "laid upon the table," nor had it even the less conventional reception of being laid under the table. Sligo ways are peculiar, for we are told that "the Mayor, amidst great excitement tore up the document, and flung the fragments at the ex-Mayor."

THE NEW SEAT OF WAR.

(Concluded.)

When His Highness Said Pasha visited England in 1862 Sir Frederick Murchison, then President of the Royal Geographical Society, requested some information respecting the actual frontiers of Egyptian territory. The reply of Said Pasha, "Nos frontiéres en Egypte sont trés elastiques," was thoroughly exemplified by the encroachments on Abyssinia. Boghos was absorbed; Gallabat, which during my visit in 1861 was Abyssinian, and governed by a Tokroori officer in the pay of Theodore, has become Egyptian. The magnificent country at the base of a high range of mountains, including that most fertile district bordered by the Atbara to the junction of the Taccazzy, or Settite river, at Tomat, is rightly Abyssinia, but is now sparsely populated through a sense of insecurity.

The river Mareb, or Gash, debouches into a plain below the granite mountain of Cassala, a fortified town upon the margin of the river, which is the capital of the Taka district. This was a portion of Abyssinia before the conquest of the Soudan.

The Soudan in 1865 was roughly outlined by Abyssinia south of Boghos, with most irregular frontier lines from Cassala to the Rahad, Dinder and Blue Nile to Fazokle. A constant Arab warfare was carried on by the Arab tribes upon whom reprisals were made by the Abyssinians. The towns or markets were few and at distant intervals, Cassala and Kadarit representing the only stations of importance between the Blue Nile and the Red Sea, excepting the ports of Suakim and Massowah.

In 1869 the Khedive, His Highness Ismail Pasha, extended his rule to within one degree of the equator, to include the basin of tha Nile. Between 1862 and 1869 the Egyptian Government had gradually crept forward up the stream, and had established the post of Fashoda upon the White Nile, N. lat. 9 deg. 52 sec.

In 1874 Darfur was annexad to prevent the slave-hunters from joining the Sultan of that country, which would have formed a dangerous combination on the Soudan frontier. This annexation perfected the Soudan territory, and included the entire basin of the Nile from the equator to the Mediterranean.

It will now be interesting to divide the useless deserts from the fertile districts, and to regard the general capabilities of this extensive area.

The rainy zone is not limited by an exact parallel of latitude, as it extends further north in proportion to the continuatiou of the lofty mountain range which walls in Abyssinia when approaching the Red Sea, The fertility of the country depends entirely upon the rain-fall: this commences in May and continues until the middle of September. None of the rivers overflow their banks, as the beds are far below the general level of the country; these have been scooped out of the deep alluvial loam in the course of ages, and the loose soil thus dissolved has been carried by the stream to deposit its fertilizing principle in the Delta of Lower Egypt.

The margin of the fertile soil commences near Gozerajup upon the Atbara river, and continues thence to Cassala. Throughout the course of the Atbara and Settite (or Faccazzy) rivers the soil is excellent, and the level surface of rich loam which forms the great flat of Meroe is cut by the Atbara to a depth of more than 150 feet, the uniform surface of the plains being scored to the extent of two miles in maximum width, which forms a valley, through which it flows until the river reaches the desert sands to the north of Gozerajup. For the last 100 miles up to that point the valley of the Atbara is gradually diminished, uutil it forms a simple streak of water slightly below the surrounding level of yellow sand; through this sterile area it hurries in a rapid stream, marked in its desert course by the green line of some palms and mimosas, which fringe the banks, nourished by the only moisture in that land of thirst.

The Atbara river joins the Nile about 1,200 miles frrm the Mediterranean, and there can be no doubt that the Delta of Egypt has mainly resulted from the vast quantity of mud which is brought down by the periodical flood during the rainy season of Abyssinia, and deposited in the lower level.

The rivers Angrab and Salaam, which flow into the Atbara river, south of the Settite, although much inferior, exhibit the same character, having scooped out valleys from the rich soil of the level plains; the cubic contents of all these deep depressions have been transferred by the mud-charged waters to the Delta of Lower Egypt.

As Egypt has derived its fertility from the soil thus delivered from the higher levels of Abyssinia and the Soudan, it can be well imagined that a vast field of agricultural wealth must remain unknown wiihin those distant regions through which the rivers flow. The Blue Nile is also surcharged with mud, but not to the same extent as the Atbara river. which is the actual parent of Lower Egypt.

The entire drainage of the Nile basin is from south-east to north-west. There are no affluents from the west throughout the whole course of that mighty river, with the exception of the Bahr Gazelle, which is insignificant, about 9 min 20 sec. North latitude.

It will be easily comprehended that the eastern provinces watered by numerous rivers must be superior to those upon the west bank of the Nile, which suffer from drought, and are accordingingly of little agricultural value.

The development of the Soudan should be rigidly confined to those countries which are sitnated east of the main river, and the wealth of that region will be exhibited on the banks of the Blue Nile, Senaar, and throughout the ancieni Meroe, the peninsula included between that river and the junction of the Atbara, with the Nile in N. 17 deg. 40 min.

The population of the Soudan is divided into numerous tribes. Those which inhabit the borders of the Blue Nile and the main river are cultivators of the soil and dwell in permanent villages. The Arabs of the desert are pastoral and nomadic, for the simple reason that a change of site is necessary when seeking pastures for their flocks. The sparse herbage of the wilderness affords but scanty nourishment, thus an immense extent of country is required for the grazing of large herds of camels, cattle, goats and sheep, which constitute the wealth of nomad people. It must be borne in mind that Arabs are nomadic from necessity only, and should they be supplied with good land and means of irrigation, they would gladly settle in any country that would support their animals, provided that the administration was free from the corruption which is a foundation of the prevailing discontent.

The duty and the policy of good goverment in the Soudan should be directed to the development of the natural rescources of the country and to the industrial employment of the population. Wanderers should be induced to settle in localities that would reward their labour, and the earth would yield a harvest that would tempt the Arab to exchange his camel-hair tent for the more substantial roof of a village home.

In a future article I shall endeavour to explain the division of Arab tribes throughout the Soudan, and the peculiarities of soil and climatic conditions which are favourable to a vast agricultural development.

COMPLETION OF THE MERSEY TUNNEL.

Last Thursday witnessed the completion of a most important part of the project for the connection by a submarine railway not only of Liverpool and its growing neighbouring town of Birkenhead, but also of the counties of Lancaster and Chester, and for affording more direct communication by railway between this and the Great Western system. In spite of the many serious difficulties which necessarily stood in the way of an engineering undertaking of such magnitude, the tunnelling of the Mersey on Thursday became an accomplished fact, within a period from the commencement of the operations as short as the most ardent promoter of the work could reasonably have predicted. On the invitation of the chairman of the Mersey Tunnel Railway Company, the Right Hon. H. Cecil Raikes, M.P., a number of gentlemen interested in the work, together with representatives of the local press, accompanied him into the tunnel to see the last barrier of rock removed and the connection of the two headings. The party included Mayor S. Isaac, one of the financial promoters of the scheme; Messrs. J. Brunlees and C. D. Fox, engineers to the company; H. E. Gill and F. Archer, solicitors to the company; H. Robertson, M.P.,; John Waddel, the contractor, of Edinburgh, and James Prentice, his manager; A. H. Irvine, resident engineer, and E. S. Wilcox, assistant; D. A. Davidson, contractor's engineer, and E. de Faye, assistant; Colonel Beaumont; Andrew Barclay, Henry Fox, and others. Most of the gentlemen were provided with oilskin suits—an outfit which proved invaluable to those who were fortunate to possess it. They descended in small groups the shaft close to George's Dock, on the Liverpool side, about twelve o'clock, and had the satisfaction before again seeing the light of day of having walked across under the river to Birkenhead. We have from time to time in the columns of this journal alluded to the progress which had been made in this great engineering enterprise, but it is scarcely possible for those who have not had ocular demonstration of the fact to realise how much of the work has been accomplished. The shaft by which the descent was made in small cages, which afford standing room for about four persons, is a depthof 90 feet, that being the distance from the open-air surface to the level of the future railroad. There they found themselves in a dry and lofty tunnel, cased with a solid and well-finished brick work. Itmay here be incidentally mentioned that landwards the excavations have proceeded to a point just below North John-street, where a narrow air-shaft has been recently sunk, affording not only ventilation, but a faint though welcome light to the workings. For the present, operations are stopped in this direction, the efforts of the contractors being directed to the completion of the more important section lying beneath the waters of the Mersey. There are several electric illuminations in the tunnel, which give a refreshing light to the otherwise dark cavern-like surroundings. The gradient of the tunnel to the heading is 1 in 30. The brick casing is not yet far advanced riverwards, and a brief walk brought the party beneath the bed of the river, where the drippings of salt water at once suggested the usefulness of the mackintoshes. At intervals you come to a hole in the ground below you, through which the water streams down into the drainage headway, by means of narrow bores pierced through the rock. The tunnel gradually narrowed until the heading was reached, and there the party had the pleasure of witnessing the boring, by Major Beaumont's powerful machine, through the barrier of rock which blocked the communication between the two sides of the river. This machine, which is the one for some time used in connection with the channel tunnel project, was introduced here about nine months ago. It was adapted to the boring of chalk rock, which is of a much softer nature than the red sandstone of the Mersey, and the progress made with it was for a time slow. But improvements, having been introduced from time to time, it has latterly fully realised all that was expected of it, and the progress has been of late most marked. The size of the bore is 7 feet, and the machines leaves the surface of the rock almost as smooth as the bore of a rifle. The total length of rock pierced by the machine is about three-eights of a mile. On Saturday about fourteen feet had to be excavated by the machine on the Birkenhead side, and the operations of the workmen on the Liverpool side were stopped to give to Colonel Beaumont the honour of completing the tunnel. On Monday a small bore was made through the rock to test the accuracy of the lines, but is was left till Thursday to completely remove the barrier. At the time the party reached the spot there remained about a foot of rock to be removed. The ponderous machine was at once set to work, and it was a matter of astonishment to several of those present to notice how the stone crumbled before its irresistible force. In the space of ten minutes the last atom of stone fell, and the junction of the headings was effected. The cheer was taken up by the workmen on each side and those at the head of the shafts, who thus intimated to the outside world what had been accomplished below.

Mayor Isaac briefly addressed the party. He said he tendered his cordial and heartfelt thanks to all who had been and were engaged in that great work for what they had done. They had that day consummated an event which would be recorded in time to come in the annals of British history as being one of the most glorious and greatest undertakings of this period. He concluded by paying a high compliment to the engineers of the works, and congratulating Mr. Raikes on the success that had attended the project.

Our London Correspondent sent us yesterday four columns from the papers of that city about the arrival of Barnum's £40,000 white elephant, a dirty yellowish brute that no one with an ounce of brains cross the street to look at. Our London colleagues must be very hard up for news when they go in for Barnum in this style, unless he paid for it.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Here's a go! Havas announces that the House of Lords has passed a vote of censure on the Government by a sweeping majority. This won't deprive the Grand Old Man of much sleep, in face of the vote of confidence of the Commons; but it will very probably bring on another conflict between the two Houses, and hurry on the inevitable day when the hereditary legislators will be stripped of their privilege of impeding public business.

The c. d. and p. shower on Tuesday night was glorious, and everybody went to bed cool and happy—always excepting tramway men, who seem to be quite ignorant of the fact that the five cents fare is a blessing in disguise for them. The ambient was much cooler yesterday, the streets were clean, the dust was gone, 'en fin' it was a pleasant day.

The Leibnitz has brought a lot of news, which will be found in another column. The Parliamentary session is likely to be very stormy. Sir Charles Dilke declared recently that the London Government and Franchise Bills must be passed this session, and the Opposition dont like it. The pristine pantomime of our childhood was revived in London at Christmas with immense success; theatres crowded with children day and night. Delmonico, the King of New York 'restaurateurs' went out of his mind and died. He was enormously wealthy, but lost heavily in Wall-street.

The Patria Argentina declares a solemn truth, viz, that the "Collective Intellectuality" Committee have turned out a lot of windbags, "all sound and fury, signifying nothing." Right you are colleague. We knew it, and retired gracefully. Some of the "Collectives" are in more venemously bad humour than usual, as the whole row is now over. The cars now dash along as of yore, and everything is as it was, except that the horses are still made to walk at the corners. This excellent rule, and that preventing overcrowding of the cars, should be maintained; all the rest are leather and and prunella. In order to keep up the spirit of the companies who will be forced to follow Lacroze or surrender the whole traffic of the city to him, we feel much pleasure in publishing the following tramway news from London, received yesterday by the Leibnitz:—"Mr. David P. Sellar, in presiding at the half-yearly meeting of the London Tramway Company, mentioned that in six months they had carried 22,000,000 passengers, at a revenue of £124,000. The number of passengers has been doubled since the cheapening of the fares; and while in the old days they made no profit at all, now they were making a very handsome one." This is conclusive; and the self-same thing must occur here, although Lacroze was the only tramway man with brains enough to see it at once.

We received the following witty letter from Rosario yesterday. W. P. has never written the word rile, nor has it, even by mistake, ever so appeared in our columns. We are not in the least riled, but, real-ly, must say that our P. S's fun is unlike the quality of mercy:—

Rosario,
12th Feb. 1884.

Dear Standard

We often read in your columns very excellent statistics etc., from your talented "Special Correspondent" in Rosario. In mentioning moneys, we often find the word "rile." What is a "rile?" If English and referring to coin, this word should be spelt Royal, if Spanish "real." For example: "El Principe real de España" translated is; the Prince Royal of Spain; and not the riled Prince of Spain. Should you be not too crowded in your columns, and think this worthy of insertion, you might find space for these few lines. At the same time don't confuse our Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria with a "Libra Esterlina."

Hoping you will not be riled,
Believe me,
Yours truly
A Provincial Subscriber.

Our new and 'picante' colleague Figaro is daily increasing in popularity. Some of its shafts are so keen that they go through and through the vitals of those they are aimed at. Though keen, they are polished to the highest degree.

Thanks to the benevolent storm, which laid low the telegraph posts, there was less San Juan literature in the papers yesterday. The Indignation Meeting will come off in the Teatro Nacional on Sunday next. The number of orators that have entered their names for a shy at 'la palabra' on the occasion is most truly formidable, and if they all get on their legs the meeting must inevitably last a week—not an hour less.

The Provincial and Hypothecary Banks, and the Pawn Office have received their marching orders for La Plata. The employees should take life-belts and life-boats with them, as should the winter prove wet, they will otherwise all be drowned to a dead certainty.

The wind on Tuesday afternoon was tolerably strong. It blew the roofs off two carriages on the Ensenada line. The train was near the Boca at that time. Nobody was hurt, but the passengers got a tremendous fright.

Prince Oscar of Sweden is coming here from Rio, and will arrive in a few days. No doubt His Royal Highness will receive a cordial welcome.

The British Consul General in Rio has left for England.

Some of our colleagues, now that they have cooked the goose of the Tramway companies, show signs of an inclination to "go for" the poor Telephone Companies, and probably they will likewise be badgered within an inch of their miserable lives. When the Telephones are thoroughly "polished off," which, we suppose, will be in about a fortnight, we suggest that a raid should be made on the monstrous rents, taxes, guias and goodness knows how many more imposts and impositions that tend to keep meat at its present outrageous price. It wont be as good fun as tramway-baiting, but far more beneficial for the public.

The rain telegrams show that the beneficient downpour on Tuesday night was general. Estancieros were consequently, in high spirits yesterday.

We hear that a grand subscription ball is being organised for St. Patrick's Day. The subscription will be forty National dollars each, the surplus to go to the Irish Orphanage. Our friend Mr. J. B. Gahan, 78 Reconquista, is the Secretary, and parties wishing to join the ball can apply to him up to the 18th inst. The Ball Committee are Messrs. Casey, T. Duggan, E. W. Murphy, L. Garrahan, Dr. M. Murphy, and Dr. S. O'Farrel. In such hands this Terpsychorean 'fiesta' is pretty certain to be a most brilliant success.

There was a fashionable and grand wedding breakfast yesterday at the Café de Paris, after the marriage, at 8 a.m., of Mr. Michael Mullen of Arecifes and Miss Mary Harrington, daughter of our wealthy countryman, Mr. John Harrington of San Pedro. The entertainment was most sumptuous, and the health of the happy pair was drunk with great enthusiasm. We beg to add our congratulations to those which the numerous friends of the young couple so warmly showered on them yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Flannery, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Leahy, officiated, and between 50 and 60 of our millionaire Irish estancieros attended the wedding breakfast.

Messrs. Porritt & Co. have sent round a neat little pamphlet detailing the merits of the La Uruguaya Telephone, on the Siemens system, the great advantage of which is that you can hear through it, a thing not to be done through some other telephones, except by accident now and then. Messrs. Porritt have got an exclusive privilege for the whole of the Republic of Uruguay.

We hear from London that Mr. F. St. John, who was so popular here some years ago as H.M. Chargé d'Affaires, is likely to succeed Mr Petre as Minister Plenipotentiary here. Mr. St. John has hosts of friends in this city who will be very glad to welcome him back again in a higher post.

We were enveloped in English papers yesterday, thanks to the captain and agents of the Leibnitz, Dewey & Co., and Mr McCallum, who has just returned in the Leibnitz, with all sorts of novelties for his numerous customers.

"Do they ever bark?" inquired Aunt Judith as she gazed at a pair of stuffed sea-dogs in the exhibition. "No, aunt, not now," said Aurther, "their bark is on the sea."

THE ZOOPHILES.

"Where are now the hopes we cherished?"

Dear Standard,

We did think that by this time every one ou the editorial staff of the Staandard would know that any man who witnesses a brutal outrage, such as that described in to-day's number, is bound by duty and humanity to take the trouble of calling the attention of the first policeman he can find to the circumstance, and to see that he do his duty, which, by the bye, the "bobbies" are always ready enough to do.

We, likewise, did think that every one on your enlightened staff would know that finding fault with those who do their duty is no excuse for failing to perform it one's self, but that, on the contrary, it is, to use the Spanish proverb, "like spitting towards Heaven what is sure to fall on one's own face."

This morning, at seven o'clock, one of the most inactive members of that "miserable society," the least of whose members does more for the protection of animals than the whole Standard staff, to judge them by their own frequent statements, had a horse with a sore shoulder taken from a cart and placed in the stable in Calle Cerrito, No. 12, leaving orders that the animal should be watered, fed and cured in the best possible manner, guaranteeing to the stable-keeper, Sr. Calisto D. Rodriguez, in the name of the society with many initials, the payment of all expenses.

I remain, &c.,
W. D. J.

A CHRONIC COUGH cannot be cured by means of a simple lupication of the irritated throat. To insura a permanent cure the medicine used must contain some soothing and healing ingredients, which may be readily absorbed by the effected parts—the lungs; with all their healing properties unimpaired.

Experience has proved that the Pectoral of Anacahuita, consisting of an extract obtained from a renowned medicinal tree of Mexico, is full of the very properties required, and is besides easily absorbed by the organs of respiration.

February 13th, 1884

Cedulas E	87
Cedulas F	84½
National Bank Shares....	129½

There was an earthquake in the market this morning, and the hall shook with the excitement at the ring. As a leading broker remarked it looked like liquidation day, and verily affairs this morning were more active than on the settlement day last month. About 7,000 National Bank Shares were sold in an hour, and the tumble in prices took many by surprise; a stand-from-under feeling seized operators as rates fell steadily from 131-129½; this is a fall of over 4 o/o in a few days. Opinions are very much divided with regard to the fall in the stock; many thought that bad news was afloat and that the stringency of the money market was too much for those who carried the stock on borrowed money; others opined that the leading bulls were selling out or making a joint. The principal sellers this morning appeared to be bulls, whilst the buyers were bears. At all events, there must have been a let-go from some important quarter, and the market would have inevitably tumbled two or three per cent lower, if the bears had not begun to buy back freely. The market opened at half past 12 o'clock at 131, fell to 130, and then began to fluctuate; but the fall continued to 129½, when an attempt was made to stem the current; all efforts were in vain and down went the stock to 129½, closing weak at this rate. The fall has somewhat helped the market, and the burden of heaviness is no longer so much felt, but there is still a dull feeling of depression in all stocks and outsiders keep aloof, as they deem prices too high yet. Fifty shares only were sold for cash at 129½.

Cedulas E ruled dull and weak. Fifty thousand were sold cash at 87; 70,000 were sold for the end of the month at 87 and 87½, and 10,000 were sold for March at 87½. About 30,000 Series F changed hands for cash at 84½ and 84½, closing rate. The market closed dull and the bulls can hardly keep up the Cedulas Series E.

Roads and bridges stock are offered, holders ask one premium, but there are no buyers at that rate.

The telegram in the Tribuna Nacional to-day from San Nicolas stating that the Provincial Bank branch in that town does not pay gold for its notes, was the subject of very great remark not only on the Bolsa but in Banking circles, but people seem to forget that even in this city gold is so scarce that sovereigns and francsare at a premium, how much scarcer must be gold coin throughout the country and interior where gold is rarely required for business purposes, as all transactions are in paper.

The removal of the Provincial Bank, the Mortgage Bank, and the Monte Pledad, to the new capital La Plata, is now but a mere question of day. The Provincial Government has applied to the Legislature and also notified the various board to make timely preparations for the change. As yet we cannot well say what shape this business will take but it appears to us that there is more form than reality in the proposed move, as the head office of the Bank even though removed to La Plata will not remove the volume of the Bank business, and except these Banks shut up their establishments here and moved out in toto to La Plata we cannot see what great market change the new move will create.

Mr. Barbour, estanciero Bahia Blanca, who has arrived out from England, was welcomed on 'Change also Mr. McCallum to whose kind attention we are indebted for London papers of 19th January. We also welcome to the Plate several English engineers who come we believe for the Great Southern Railway.

We note in the London papers that Mercantile Bank shares have gone up on the London market and are now at 1½.

The following were the sales at the ring during official hours:—

Cedulas—
For cash E 50,000 at 87
For Feb. 29th E 70,000 at 87½-87-½
For March 31st E 10,000 at 87½
For cash F 32,000 at 84½-½-½
Sales, 162,000
National Bank Shares—
For cash 50 at 129½
For Feb. 29th 6,250 at 131-130½-½-½-½-½ to 130½-½-½-½-130-129½-½-130-129½-130 to 129½-½-½-½-½

Sales, 6,300
Argentine Gas Shares—

The Provincial Bank is drawing nearly all the exchange for the mail. The private banks have drawn for small amounts on time at somewhat lower rates than those of the Provincial Bank. Bills in the market are scarce, and the exchange offering consists principally of "artista" paper; the market nevertheless, looks firmer than last week and the restriction of discounts has somewhat effected the tone of the market.

Government Bills have experienced a sudden push since last week; a large amount, according to rumours, has been done at 9 per cent and takers for small amounts now demand 10 per cent. It appears that in many quarters these bills which were discounted some time ago at lower rates are being rediscounted. The sudden turn and the squeeze in the market are worthy of remark.

Our colleague La Pampa attributes to the columns of the Standard some lengthy remarks with regard to the placing of the loans in Europe, which we cannot father, since they belong to the Diario; "Noblesse oblige" the considerations expressed in these columns differed somewhat, in many points altogether, from the transcription referred to by the Pampa.

To-morrow Messrs. Bullrich and Co., will sell by auction 28 square leagues of land situated in Sections IX and X, National Territory. The market attaches much importance to the results of the auction as of late a perceptible lull has seized speculation in lands. The late sales published show, no doubt, a visible fall in price, and there is no denying the weakness of the market, but good lands continue in steady demand for stocking purposes and far from failing, the supply is not so large as supposed and high prices continue to be paid. The lands which Mr. Bullrich will sell by auction to-morrow are situated in Sections of the National Territory which are little known to the public; furthermore the cheapest lands offering in the market are situated in the XIth Section and the conditions will afford an opportunity of securing lands at cheap prices, which could not be obtained in other Sections. The lands in the IXth Section adjoin General Acha; lands in this district have commanded high prices in the market. The auction will be largely attended by land men, to judge by the general interest taken in the sale; bets on the Bolsa are numerous with regard to the results of the auction.

Mr. E. W. Murphy, Deputy in the Legislature, has been appointed Vice-President of the Banco Constructor of the La Plata. The support of such men as Mr. Murphy speaks volumes for this enterprise.

Our colleague the Courrier de la Plata had a remarkable article to-day on the anticipations of crisis entertained in the market. Everybody on the Bolsa was talking of the article.

The Concordia took 4,272 bags of wheat from Rosario for Europe. The Wexford is loading 640 tons of wheat for Bordeaux up rivers.

The Clyde is discharging railway material alongside the Catalinas Mole.

Telegrams from London announce that the Colonial wool sales opened without change in rates, but that the market was feebly sustained. Although these wool sales have no direct influence on this market, buyers here await further particulars with interest. Advices from the manufacturing districts in France continue unfavourable, and it appears that the European wool market in general is not in a satisfactory condition.

The money market continues very tight. One of the private banks discounted something at 8 o/o. Money is becoming dearer every day.

Over five thousand shares were sold during afternoon The greatest excitement prevailed in the liquidation parlour. Nearly all the sales were effected at 129½; some sham operations were done at 129½, but the market closed firm as a rock at 129½ buyers for the end of the month. About 12,000 shares were sold to-day, and the market ruled firm at 129½ in spite of the excessive offer made for the end of the month. The fall has shown the firm foundation of the market, more so, in fact, than a rise would have done. The Cedula market ruled very dull during afternoon hours. Little or nothing done. Closing rate 87½.

Mr. P. Ham was welcomed to-day on his return from Montevideo. He states that the Montevidean wool market is very dull; all the deposits full.

Mr. Schneidewind, C.E., left yesterday for Tucuman. He reports the Tunnel completed and the railway prolongation to Vipos will be opened to the public immediately.

The Governor of Mendoza's Message was received yesterday. We note that the Public Debt of that Province has been reduced from $364,345 to $106,958 which shows economy.

Exchange owing to the sudden tightness of money has gone up: the merchants' it seems, have no money to take bills, thus at the close of the mail there was not a bill of exchange at 5 francs to be had in the market, except at the Provincial Bank, and now francs are offering freely at 5.03-4 on France and 5.05 on Antwerp, and English and American bills were passed to-day at 47⅞. The Italian Bank was the principal taker of exchange to-day, and also the chief discounter of commercial pagarés first-class at 8 per cent. The other banks are according to the statements of the brokers not discounting.

Mr. Arthur Cook, of the renowned firm of Lamport and Holt, has arrived out in the Leibnitz, and was welcomed.

Another flock of mestiza sheep bought to-day for the Loreto camps, the sheep were bought in Rojas 'al corte' at 35 ℳ. We note more movement of farmers to the Venado Tuerto and Loreto camps than to any other district, and the reason is that those who settled up there a year ago have done so well and the camps are so good and cheap, that others are following, as the rents inside absorb all the earnings of the sheepfarmer.

The sale of jerked beef at 33 rls has been sufficiently explained to show the great push that is made to bear the beef market. Jerked beef is no doubt down, but not to the extent that speculators pretend.

We think it right to state that on enquiry into the telegram from San Nicolas published in this morning's Tribuna Nacional we learn that it is not customary for any of the branches of the Provincial Bank to pay gold; all that is done where gold is required is to give a draft on Buenos Aires payable in gold.

The article in to-day's Prensa on the Bank and conversion question was very much commented on in the Bolsa and we note now that nearly all the papers occupy their columns discussing market topics.

£30,000 English and American exchange passed this afternoon at 47⅞, and a large amount in francs at 5.03 and 04.

To-day the first call on the new

Every paper in town declares that it was the first to propose a reduction of the tramway fares to five cents. Of course, colleagues, you were all first together, only this paper happened to suggest it, but on a basis of justice to the Tramway Companies, at least a week before you thought of it.

The steamer going on the 23rd takes the Argentine exhibits to Bremen, and there is time till the 20th to send in more to the Industrial Club. Those sent in already—wines, flax, preserved fruit, books and newspapers (oh, Lord!)—won't set Europe on fire.

Our Italian colleagues have taken a very proper step, which should be imitated. They have called on the numerous Italian Societies in this city to give up the bad habit of parading the flag of their country through the streets at Carnival and on the other too numerous occasions seized for drumming and fifeing, under pretence of anniversaries, 'fiestas,' funerals, etc. Others of our foreign colleagues should give their countrymen the same advice. We have no reason to say anything to ours, as the grand old Union Jack is never used to cover such capers, here or anywhere else. We can say the same of the German flag.

Already the fatal madness of Carnival time is beginning to appear. The employées of the 'escribania' office of Marino have presented a 'solicitud' to the head of that office, asking that their salaries be paid before Carnival instead of at the end of the month. They all promise to turn up on Friday after a two days' rest, and the petition in fact was so pathetically worded that the 'boss' could not refuse.

The tramway nuisance is assuming daily more disgraceful features. Reprisals on the part of what a colleague styles 'mayorales mal educados' are now common, and must be put an end to. On Tuesday night a young lady in one of the Lacroze coaches No. 39, wished to alight, but as the 'mayoral' was talking with the driver, a passenger, to attract his attention, had to touch the bell. The coach, however, continued on its way uninterruptedly, and the guard approaching the gentleman that touched the bell insolently inquired what power he had to do so. As he made no answer another gentleman rang and told him the young lady wished to get down. The guard replied that the coach would not stop until a street corner was reached, and in effect the young lady had to walk a whole square in the rain. There used to be a fine of $200 m/c., for not stopping the coach when a passenger wishes to alight, but perhaps this has been abrogated or lost sight of in all the row.

The "Union Artesanos" society will give a masked ball on the 23rd inst., in the Club Germania's rooms. These entertainments are a source of great amusement and interest.

The erection of the grand Catholic Cathedral of Westminster has commenced. It will be the grandest church in Europe, barring St. Peters. The offerings received to defray the cost are very large. There is one donation of £250,000, two of £100,000, and so on.

It is said that Gayarre, the great tenor, won the big prize in the Madrid Lottery, £80,000 sterling. It is always those who don't want them that obtain Fortune's smiles.

The neighbours of Olavarria have gold medalled their Comisario for his energy and exertions in the matter of clearing up the murder of the Juez de Paz.
